

Flyer named COO at BOWA Builders

David Flyer has been named chief operating officer at BOWA Builders Inc., a full-service custom residential builder ranked one of the largest whole-house remodelers in the country. Flyer was previously the firm's general counsel and vice president of new business development.

In this new post, Flyer will concentrate on enhancing delivery of BOWA's core services by improving processes aimed at ensuring client satisfaction. Last year, the McLean-based company opened a satellite office in Middleburg to service Loudoun and Fauquier counties. The company grossed $40 million in revenues in 2005 and has won more than 60 awards for its business and construction practices.
